1. Welcome to this guide

At the Health Service Executive (HSE), we are legally responsible, under the Health Act 2004, to manage and deliver health services. The National Medical Card Unit within the HSE, we assist people in finding out if they are eligible for a medical card or a GP visit card. We have developed this guide for Medical Cards and GP Visit Cards so you can understand:

- if you qualify
- what is covered
- how to apply
- how your application will be decided and
- how to appeal a decision you are unhappy with.

We have included examples to help you understand. Each example is shown with this symbol .

2. Who can get a Medical Card or GP Visit Card?

Anyone who is 'ordinarily resident' in the Republic of Ireland can apply for a Medical Card or GP Visit Card. This includes families, single people, including those working full or part-time or not at all. 'Ordinarily resident' means that you are living here and intend to live here for at least one year. As part of your application, you will have to provide evidence that you own or rent accommodation and it is your family home.

If you are a student

If you are a student studying abroad, you must return to Ireland at least once a week to be considered ordinarily resident. As part of your application, you may have to provide evidence such as airline tickets.

If you are a non EU/EEA or Switzerland

We may contact the Irish Naturalisation and Immigration Service (INIS) to get copies of documents that prove:

- you and your dependants are ordinarily resident or
- your visa permits you to apply for a Medical Card or GP Visit Card.

Who is eligible for a Medical Card or GP Visit Card?

You will be able to get a Medical Card or GP Visit Card in these situations.

- When your finances – income and outgoings – are assessed, and you meet the income requirements.
- You don't meet the income requirements, but you have a medical condition or conditions that make paying for healthcare difficult. The National Medical Card Unit will look at your situation and decide if you should have a Medical Card or GP Visit Card. This is often called a discretionary card.
- You automatically qualify and may not have to do a means test. This includes:
 - People who are taking part in certain government work schemes or returning to work

- Some people affected by the drug Thalidomide
If your mother took Thalidomide while she was pregnant with you and living in Ireland and you have been affected by the drug, you automatically qualify. If your mother was outside of Ireland when she took the drug, you do not automatically qualify and will be subject to full means assessment.
- Women affected by symphysiotomy
- Children under 18 who have been diagnosed with cancer within the last five years
- Children in foster or residential care
- People who qualify under EU Regulations
- Children whose parents get a Domiciliary Care Allowance for them
- GP Visit Card for people getting Carers Allowance or Carers Benefit.

For any of the situations listed above, you may not have to do a means test. You will still need to apply and we may need documentary evidence.

If you are an applicant for international protection living solely on a direct provision payment you will need to complete an application form and we will need documentary evidence.

Over 70

If you are 70 or over, you can apply for an Over 70's Medical Card or GP Visit Card. If your income is above the financial threshold and you cannot get a Medical Card based on this assessment, you will be awarded an Over-70s GP Visit Card. You don't need to send an additional application for this. To learn more about financial thresholds go to website <https://www.hse.ie/eng/cards-schemes/medical-card/medical-card-for-over-70s/>

The means test for the Over 70's Medical Card is based on gross income from all sources with the exception of;

- Household Benefits awarded by DEASP (electricity, gas costs and television licence)
- Free Fuel Allowance
- Telephone Support Allowance
- Living Alone Allowance
- Savings, up to €36,000 for single applicant, €72,000 for married/co-hab couple
- Additional property if generating no rental income

- Specific Compensation Awards/Redress Awards

Children under 8

Children under 8 can get a GP Visit Card. This covers:

- all visits to your child's family doctor
- assessments at age 2 and 5 and
- all healthcare for children with asthma and
- out-of-hours urgent GP care

What other healthcare schemes are available?

There are other healthcare schemes to make the cost of health and medical care more affordable for all. These include:

The Redress for Women Resident in Certain Institutions Scheme

From July 2015, legislation was introduced to make certain health services available without charge to many women who were admitted to and worked in certain institutions.

You do not need to apply for this scheme. We will contact you when the Department of Justice and Equality tell us you have been accepted to join it.

Drugs Payment Scheme (DPS)

The Drug Payment Scheme (DPS) pays pharmacists to supply medicines to individuals and families where they cost more than a certain amount each month.

Long-Term Illness Scheme (LTI Scheme)

If you have one or more illnesses specified you are entitled to certain drugs, medicines and appliances under the LTI Scheme free of charge. This applies no matter what your income. You can get an application form and further information from www.hse.ie or your local community health office.

5. How we assess your income and expenses

When you apply for a Medical Card or GP Visit Card, we assess your income to find out if you qualify for a card. If you have a spouse or partner, we consider your combined income.

If your means are above the HSE's Financial Guidelines to qualify for a Medical Card or GP Visit Card, we may consider your social and medical situation to decide if you would have considerable trouble paying for medical care for you and your family.

When we assess your income, we divide it into two types:

- assessable
- non-assessable.

We include assessable income in your means test. We do not include non-assessable income in your means test.

All or some of your income from social welfare payments?

If all of your income comes from social welfare payments, you will get a Medical Card even if your income is above the income threshold.

If you receive a social welfare payment that is less than the maximum weekly rate, you will need to explain why you get a smaller payment. If it is because you have other income, you will need to provide evidence of that other income.

Income we assess

Wages

You must provide a payslip as proof of wages. This payslip must be dated within the last three months from when your application is received. We can only accept P60s within the first three months of the year, as a P60 only refers to your earnings for the previous year.

Casual work where part-time jobseekers allowance

If you are a casual worker receiving a part-time jobseekers allowance, we will calculate your wages based on the average wages earned and average jobseekers payment.

Private and occupation pensions

If you have private or occupation pension, you must provide a payslip as proof of the amount paid to you. This payslip must be dated within the last 12 months from when we received your application. We can only accept a P60 for the most current calendar year.

Maintenance payments

If you are getting a maintenance payment, you must provide evidence of this. The evidence we accept is a current court order or maintenance agreement detailing the amount.

If your maintenance agreement is less than 12 months old, we can accept that. If it is older than 12 months, you must provide evidence of the amount you receive by providing:

- a bank statement dated within three months showing your three most recent payments or

- a letter from the person who pays the maintenance detailing what they pay you and how often they make payments. This letter must be signed and dated within the last three months.

Property (other than principal private residence)

If you rent it

If the property, in addition to your principal private residence, is rented out to another person you must send us the following two documents:

- a copy of the tenancy agreement
- a recent bank statement dated within last six months with account holder's name visible. This statement must show at least three payments of rental income that you received or your most recent Notice of Assessment from Revenue.

If you don't rent out your additional property

If the additional property is not rented, you must provide a valuation of the property by a certified auctioneer. This valuation will be assessed under the Savings and Investments Rules.

How we calculate your income and expenses

Your qualifying financial threshold is the amount you can earn a week and still qualify for a card.

How we calculate this

Your qualifying financial threshold is worked out by adding the following three amounts:

- a basic rate — an amount of money depending on your circumstances, and
- the amount for each child dependant, and
- the amount for allowable expenses or income.

The three amounts are added together to give you a qualifying financial threshold. This figure is the most you can earn after taxes (your net weekly income) and still qualify for a Medical Card. If you do not qualify for a Medical Card, we will automatically assess you for a GP Visit Card.

There are examples at the end of this section.

Assessing income for self-employed people

To assess your income as a self-employed person, we will need evidence of all your work, both self-employed and for other employers.

All pages of your NOA

All pages of your most recent Notice of Assessment (NOA) or your Acknowledgement of Self-Assessment, which you may have received from Revenue.

These pages should include a Revenue Indicative Calculation. If Revenue did not include the indicative calculation, you should send us a copy of the Income Tax Return (Form 11) which you last submitted to Revenue.

If you are registered to use ROS (Revenue's Online Service for the self-employed), you should be able to find copies of your NOA, Acknowledgment of Assessment, Revenue Indicative Calculation and Income Tax Return in your ROS Inbox.

No Net tax Liability

If Revenue advised you that you have No Net tax Liability (NNL) for your self-employment income, you must provide a set of accounts signed off by your accountant.

Income from self-employment listed on your P21

If your income from self-employment is listed on your PAYE End of Year Statement (P21), please submit this to us. If you are registered for myAccount (Revenue's online service for employees) and also registered to receive your correspondence electronically, you may get this statement in your My Documents section.

Business open less than one year

If your business is open less than one year, please provide a set of accounts signed off by your accountant.

If your business recently stopped trading

If your business has recently stopped trading, please provide a self declaration letter of date you were last self-employed.

Notice of assessment

If you filed a paper Form 11 with Revenue, they sent you a paper notice of assessment. Give us a copy of this. If you do not have it, contact Revenue and ask for a copy. If Revenue told you that you have no net tax liability (NNL) for your income from self-employment, please send us a set of accounts. These accounts must be signed off by your accountant.

How we calculate your income based on your notice of assessment

This is how we assess your income based on your notice of assessment. We take information from the panels on the notice and use it to calculate your weekly income.

 Example
Total of Panel 1	€31,264.00
Amounts we deduct
Panel 2: Trade capital allowance	– €1,504.20
Panel 4: Income tax payable	– €1,376.60
Panel 6: PRSI, USC, levies on self	– €1,376.60
Panel 7: PRSI, USC, levies on spouse/partner	– 625.20
Total deductions	€4,882.60
Your total assessable income	€26,381.40
Your weekly assessable income (your assessable income divided by 52)	€507.33

How your spouse/partner's pay affects your assessment

If your spouse/partner is working and pays PAYE tax, you need to give us a copy of their most recent payslip, must be dated within last 3 months. The information on this payslip will be used instead of the figure from Panel 7 of your notice of assessment.

How your savings will be assessed

If Panel 1 of your notice of assessment includes income from savings, we will not use this figure. Instead, we will assess your savings using our standard assessment for savings.

How trade capital allowances affect your assessment

Trade capital allowances are costs and expenses you can claim against your profits to reduce the amount of tax you pay. You provide this information to Revenue when you file your Form 11 Return Summary. We use the trade capital allowances figure to reduce your assessable income.

If you don't have a Form 11 Return Summary or assessment notice

If you have not received a Form 11 Return Summary or a notice of assessment, the HSE may consider taking income details from your most recent trading accounts. If we do this, we will use the adjusted net profit as your assessable income. Adjusted net profit is your income less any expenses allowed by Revenue.

Ask your accountant for details of your adjusted net profit and tax, PRSI and USC payments. Please ask your accountant to put this information on their official letterhead.

Other income

You might have income from sources that are not listed here. If you do, and if that income is less than €3,175, you need to get a P21 end-of-year statement from Revenue.

Example 1

Siobhan is 32 and lives with her 11-year-old daughter. She has rent of €100 monthly.

6. Applications for 16-25-year olds

If you have been included on your family's current Medical Card or GP Visit Card, we will send you your own card when you turn 16 (valid to parent or guardians expiry date). How you are assessed after same will depend on whether you are financially independent or dependent.

Your parents or guardians have a Medical Card or GP Visit Card

If you are financially dependent on your parents or guardians, your application will involve an assessment of your parents or guardians means.

Your parents or guardians don't have a Medical Card or GP Visit Card and you are financially independent

If you are financially independent you can apply for a Medical Card or GP Visit Card in your own right and will be assessed in your own right. Therefore, if your parents or guardians don't have a Medical Card or GP Visit Card and you are financially independent you can apply for a card and the decision will be independent of your parents or guardians eligibility status.

If you are financially dependent on your parents or guardians

If you are financially dependent on your parents or guardians and they don't qualify automatically for a medical card or gp visit card on a specific ground, any discretionary award does require the HSE to consider their individual medical circumstances in the context of your parents or guardians means (or vice versa). This does require both yourself and your parents to apply for a card but HSE Medical Officers will review any specific medical information provided (as they do for all cases) and will make an individualised recommendation (as they do for all discretionary recommendations).

If you are independent or dependent on your parents or guardians and you live away from the family home

If you live away from the family home but ordinarily resident in Rep of Ireland, then on your application you should list a family doctor near where you live most of the year, not near your family and the above methods of assessment will be carried out.

7. Applicants whose income is above the qualifying financial threshold

You may still be able to claim a Medical or GP Visit Card even if your income is above the limit.

If you do not qualify for a card based on a means test, the HSE can consider if the cost of meeting your or your family's medical and other health needs is fair and reasonable despite your income. This is often called a discretionary card and you would usually only apply for one after your application has been turned down on income grounds alone.

If you apply for a discretionary card, medical officers will assess your application to see whether they think you should have either a Medical Card or GP Visit Card.

The Medical Officer will consider if having to pay medical bills for yourself or your dependants is likely to cause you undue financial hardship. They will consider things like the cost of GP visits, medical and surgical services for you and your dependants.

Before you are told the medical officer's decision, it is reviewed by a deciding officer, who also considers your financial and medical circumstances.

8. (a) Keeping your card if you join a scheme

Which schemes are approved?

<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Back to Education Allowance• Back to Work Allowance• Back to Work Enterprise Allowance• Community Employment• Community Services Programme• Education, Training and Development Option• Fáilte Ireland and Teagasc courses• SOLAS non-apprenticeship courses	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Job Initiative• Local Employment Service courses• Part-time education option• Part-time job incentive• Revenue Job Assist• Rural Social Scheme• Vocational Training and Opportunities Scheme (VTOS)• Youthreach• YESS Scheme.

If you are on a scheme, do not have a Medical Card and would have qualified for a card before you joined the scheme, you should apply for a card. You and your adult and child dependants should have a card until you finish the scheme.

Applicants taking up a job under Wage Subsidy Scheme are entitled to keep their card for three years from starting date. After those three years, normal assessment rules apply, the same as for people working full time in paid employment.

What if my spouse or partner goes to work?

If you have a card and your spouse or partner who is dependent on you goes to work, you and your family will still keep your card until date of renewal.

What if my spouse or partner is working?

Adult and child dependents of a person covered by the scheme, who are financially dependent on that person, will also qualify for Medical Cards. However in cases where the spouse/partner of the eligible person covered by the scheme is financially independent, the dependants in that household are not deemed to be solely dependent on the eligible person.

Can I change schemes?

If you have a card and you move from one scheme to another, you may keep your card for the duration of the scheme.

If you leave the scheme before it's finished, your financial means may be reassessed.

(b) Keeping your card if you get a job

Applicants who are unemployed taking up new employment or self-employment can keep their Medical Card for three years provided that they held eligibility, were unemployed, closed off/signed off from claim/scheme and continuously received any of the following allowances or benefits at the full rate applicable to them for period of 12 months or more before they started work (see note below).

- Jobseekers Allowance
- Jobseekers Benefit
- One Parent Family Payment
- Back to Work Family Dividend
- Illness Benefit
- Invalidity Pension
- Disability Allowance
- Blind Pension
- Employment Incentive Schemes or Educational Opportunity Schemes (excluding Wage Subsidy Scheme)

Applicants may change employment in these three years, but the new job must have begun immediately after the old job finished. If the applicant becomes unemployed before the three years have ended, they are no longer eligible for a card under retention.

Note: The applicant's 12-month period can be made up of a number of allowances or benefits provided that they are paid continuously at the full rate available to the applicant. For example: 6 months Jobseekers Allowance followed immediately by 6 months on an Employment Incentive Scheme and then followed immediately by new employment or self-employment.

What if my spouse or partner is working?

Adult and child dependents of a person covered by retention, who are financially dependent on that person, will also qualify for Medical Cards. However in cases where the spouse/partner of the eligible person covered by retention is financially independent, the dependants in that household are not deemed to be solely dependent on the eligible person.

What happens at the end of the three-year retention period?

After three years, if you keep working, you must complete a review application form.

9. How does my eligibility change if I am in long-stay care?

Private nursing homes

If you are in a private nursing home and you think you might qualify for a card, please apply.

Long-stay services

If your care centre provides medical and surgical services in the centre, you will not need to attend your family doctor, and you will not need to use your card. Long-stay patients may still use their card for other services, such as dental or optical.

If your family doctor does treat you but you could have got the treatment in your centre, your card will not cover it.

How does my eligibility change if I am in residential care?

Children's residential centres

All young people in residential care are eligible for a Medical Card of their own but they need to apply for it. Their application must also include a letter from a Tusla social worker.

Foster care

All children in foster care are eligible for a Medical Card of their own but they need to apply for it. Their application must also include a letter from a Tusla social worker.

10. Applying for a card under EU regulation

You are entitled to healthcare in EU countries if you are from:

- an EU country
- a country in the European Economic Area (EEA), or
- Switzerland.

You can access healthcare in Ireland with a Medical Card or a European Health Insurance Card (EHIC) issued in your country.

To get a Medical Card, you must fill in a completed Medical Card Application Form and an E-Form or an S-Form then send them in to the Health Services Executive.

An E-Form is issued in your country and confirms that you are part of a health insurance scheme in another state in the EU. The HSE will also fill in parts of the E-Form.

You may qualify for a Medical Card if your country confirms that you are entitled to healthcare here. If so, you will not need to provide us with a financial assessment. However, if you are working here, you may not qualify for a Medical Card under EU legislation. But you may still qualify for an Irish means-tested Medical Card.

Applying for a Medical Card and GP Visit Card

To apply for your card, fill in the Medical Card and GP Visit Card Application Form (MC1). You do not need to fill in all the parts of the form. Fill in these parts.

- Part 1 — Declaration and Consent
- Part 2 & 3 — Personal Details (include spouse/partner and dependents where applicable)
- Part 4 — EU Regulations
- Part 6 — Family income. In most cases, instead of filling out Part 6, include an E-Form. But if your spouse or partner pays PRSI, you will need to apply as a family and include all your family income and expenses.
- Part 8 — Doctor of Choice

You must include an E-Form with your application. There are different types of E-Form, depending on your situation.

Frontier workers

Frontier workers living in Ireland who are employed elsewhere in the EU but return here at least once a week are eligible for a Medical Card. You will need form S1 or E106 from the country where you work.

The dependants of frontier workers are also entitled to a Medical Card if they are not linked to Irish Social Security legislation.

Posted workers

Posted workers who are employed in one EU member state and sent by their employer to work in another member state qualify for a Medical Card. You will need form S1 or E106 from the country where you work.

The dependants of posted workers are also entitled to a Medical Card if the dependants are not working here and are not subject to Irish social security legislation. To qualify, they must also be ordinarily resident in Ireland (see page 7).

Pensioners

Pensioners qualify under the EU regulations if they:

- get a qualifying pension from another EU or EEA member State or Switzerland
- live in Ireland, and
- are not entitled to a contributory welfare payment or Irish pension and do not pay PRSI.

You will need form S1 or E121 from your country.

If you are from the UK and get a UK social security pension, you do not need form S1 or E121. However, you do need a recent letter from the UK's Department for Works and Pensions detailing how much they pay you and how often this is paid.

The dependants of a pensioner are also entitled to a Medical Card if those dependants are not linked to the Irish Social Security System (Irish Social Security legislation).

Dependants living in Ireland

The dependants of frontier workers, posted workers and pensioners are entitled to a Medical Card in Ireland if:

- they are not working in Ireland, and
- are not entitled or receiving a contributory welfare payment and does not pay PRSI.

You will need form S1 or E109 from your own country.

If you are from the UK, you do not need form S1 or E109. Instead, you need evidence of your employment or self employment in the UK.

What happens when my application under EU regulations is assessed?

When the National Medical Card Unit receives your application for a card under EU regulations, they will check that you:

- are not eligible for a contributory social welfare payment from Ireland, and
- do not pay PRSI.

If you and your spouse or partner meet these requirements, you are entitled to a Medical Card under EU regulations. You and your family will receive cards.

If you and your spouse or partner do not meet these requirements, you are not entitled to a Medical Card under EU regulations. In this case, you will be asked for information about your family income and expenses. Then the National Medical Card Unit will assess your application on financial grounds.

If you meet these requirements but your spouse or partner does not, you will get a Medical Card but your spouse or partner and family will not. You will be asked for information about your family income and expenses. Then the National Medical Card Unit will assess your spouse or partner and family on means assessment.

Under EU Regulations, we must tell the authorities in your country about our decision. There is a section on your S1 or E Form that we will return to your country.

I am not sure if I qualify under EU regulations

If you are from one of these countries, you may qualify for a Medical Card under EU regulations.

• Austria	• Greece	• Netherlands
• Belgium	• Hungary	• Norway
• Bulgaria	• Iceland	• Poland
• Cyprus (Southern)	• Ireland	• Portugal
• Czech Republic	• Italy	• Romania
• Denmark	• Latvia	• Slovakia
• Estonia	• Lichtenstein	• Slovenia
• Finland	• Lithuania	• Spain
• France	• Luxembourg	• Sweden
• Germany	• Malta	• Switzerland

11. Reassessments and appeals

Having your application reassessed

We will write to tell you the decision on your application for a Medical Card or GP Visit Card. We will also send you a financial statement that shows how your means were assessed.

If you think this financial statement is wrong, you can ask the National Medical Card Unit to reassess your application with additional information not sent or missed in your original application. You need to provide this information within three weeks from the date of the letter.

Here are some of the new types of information you may provide for your reassessment.

- Documents that show how your situation has changed since you applied for a card.
- A letter or report from your GP or consultant about:
 - your medical condition; and
 - the number of time you or your dependants visited the doctor or hospital in the past 12 months.
- Details of your medications, medical appliances and other information.
- Additional expenses you have for your medical conditions and other health-related costs.
- Change in your income or outgoings.

Appealing a decision

If you disagree with a decision about your application for a card, you can appeal the decision through the National Appeals Office.

If you have new information you should ask for a reassessment, which is a new and separate procedure to an appeal.

After your appeal has arrived at the HSE, they will write to confirm that they have received it. They will then ask the National Medical Card Unit to send them your file.

HSE staff who were not involved in assessing your original application will be involved in the appeal.

The staff are only allowed to consider your appeal based on the information you supplied to the medical officer who made the original decision.

They will keep two things in mind when they reconsider your case.

1. Were your income and expenses properly assessed?
2. Are you in a category of people who are exempt from the financial means assessment?

They will also pay attention to your:

- right to privacy, impartiality and respect
- age
- ability to communicate
- mobility issues you may have, such as a wheelchair
- ability to understand legislation, regulations and procedures.

The HSE appeals officer who does the review cannot consider any new documentation, such as payslips or new information about your health or social circumstances. If you have new information, you should not appeal a decision – you should ask for a reassessment.

The staff member deciding on your appeal will decide one of three things.

- The decision is correct.
- The decision is wrong.
- Your application should be reassessed.

If we need more information, we will write to you. If we decide that your application should be reassessed, we will send your file to the National Medical Card Unit to be reassessed.

We will write to you to let you know what we have decided about your appeal.
